

Come to Chislehurst Caves

My travel blog

Where is it?

Chislehurst Caves is located in Chislehurst near Bromley.

You can get a bus from Bromley, a 269 or a 162.

If you want to drive, there is a massive car park, where you can park for free.

There are trains from Charing Cross to Chislehurst on the Orpington line. If you use wheel chair and buggies ... Then, I do not recommend this for you.

You can also get food and drinks ... so if you are hungry or thirsty then go to the comfy cafe.

Also there is a gift shop so you can get some key-rings ... so IMMEDIATELY! Go to the gift shop to see some bone chilling stuff.

Eventually you will get to the entrance of the cave, it costs £4 for children and £6 for adults for a 45 minute guided tour. It is really interesting to see a cave like a galaxy. There are miles off mystery just beneath your feet.

Your guide will lead you down into the cave he\she will bring you to a map on a dusty wall to show you the whole cave. You will turn back to find some desperate lanterns ready to be used. You will be led to a place where gun-powder was stored in WWI. There were different parts, there was a Saxon part and a Roman part and a Druids part.

World War 2 in the caves

In WWII the Caves were used for shelter during the Blitz. There were thousands of people living down there. You can also see the beds where people slept during the Blitz. There was a church and a cinema. The concert hall had a drum kit.

Inside the Caves

The cave was a giant's mouth getting darker as you go further inside. The exit too far. Nowhere to go you cannot turn-back the mouth is shut! You could explore more and more as you travel deeper and deeper. The darkness rose. The air felt thick, I tried to catch my breath but it was too difficult. So I followed the guide and saw light once more.

The cave was a mystery of darkness. The stones crumbled on my feet. The cave engulfed me like a sand-storm. I kept walking. The drops of water was a lullaby of terror. I fell asleep as the water faded away. Good night and good luck.

When I entered the eerie cave it got really cold; before, I was boiling like a potato.

Dripping echoes bounced of the crumbly walls. As I turned around the corner my heart was in my mouth. There were skeletons on the ground with notes on them all. I looked at one it said: "TURN BACK WHILST YOU CAN". The other said: "RUN!" what was that noise?

What did I learn from this trip?

Firstly, I found the history of WW11 fascinating.

The experience of being in complete darkness will always be with me.

I especially loved the part where they say that a girl drowned in a pool.

Would I recommend this trip and why?

I would recommend this trip to children over 8 because they might get scared or play around!
